Excerpt from As Only True Men Can

"I was diagnosed with a terminal illness, and I was told that I had just six months to live. It was the most terrifying moment of my life. I didn't know what to do or where to turn. But I knew that I couldn't give up. I had to keep fighting.

So I started on a journey. I traveled to different countries, met different people, and had different experiences. I wanted to see the world and experience all that it had to offer. I wanted to live my life to the fullest.

Along the way, I learned a lot about myself. I learned that I was stronger than I thought I was. I learned that I could overcome anything if I set my mind to it. And I learned that the most important thing in life is to live each day to the fullest.

I'm not going to lie, it wasn't always easy. There were times when I wanted to give up. But I kept going. And I'm so glad I did.

Because my journey has taught me so much. I've learned that life is precious. I've learned that anything is possible if you set your mind to it. And I've learned that the most important thing in life is to live each day to the fullest.

I'm not afraid of dying anymore. I've lived a full and meaningful life. And I know that I'm going to a better place.

But I'm not ready to go yet. I still have a lot to do. I want to continue to inspire others. I want to continue to make a difference in the world.

I'm a true man. And I'm not going to give up. I'm going to keep fighting. And I'm going to live each day to the fullest.
